Information Technology in the Teaching of History International Perspectives Routledge Information technology offers powerful tools to facilitate and to assist learning across the whole curriculum; the computer is certainly the most significant development in educational technology in the twentieth century. History may be thought of as a staid and perhaps tradition-bound subject, more resistant to change than some areas. Yet in history too, information technology is making an impact. This volume shows how information technology is currently contributing to, and bringing about changes in the way history is taught and learned. The international selection of the contributions shows that these phenomena are not restricted to just one country. The impact of information technology on history curricula is explored in depth in one section of the book, whilst other sections focus on classroom activities and issues, on the development of software for history, and on the relevance of current information technology developments. But the question which lies at the heart of it all remains that of how information technology can enhance the teacher's ability to offer situations in which learners can form and develop a real understanding of the nature of historical processes, and the ways in which they can be studied.

Peterson's Peterson's Master the Social Sciences and History CLEP Test is the perfect resource to help you ace this CLEP general examination, which tests you on a broad range of topics in U.S. and world history, political science, geography, economics, psychology, sociology, anthropology, and more. In preparation for taking this exam, you will start by taking a 50-question pre-test, which-together with its detailed answer explanations-will help you see which subject areas you need to focus on during your studies. This guide then offers summaries of U.S. and world history topics; comparative politics and U.S. institutions; cultural, physical, and regional geography; a review of economics with a glossary of relevant terminology and major theorists and schools; and a discussion of the thoughts and methods of psychology, sociology, and anthropology. You will practice with review questions and conclude with a 50-question post-test, all of which come with answer explanations for further knowledge retention.
